BIG HATS IN TREATRES.

(says the correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph") the male element in theatres is slowly, though surely, marching on to the conquest of hats and feathers. Out of 24 playhouses 11 have either totally and "balcon." The "logos," of course, are left untouched, as well as the empyrean circles, where all can do as they please. The three official theatres, namely, the Opera, Opera Comique, and Comedie Francaise, have long been giving good example, and have prescribed hats entirely. The Sarah Bernhardt Theatre is as the stalls are called in Paris. The Gaite, de dames" are not allowed in the front rows. The Gymnaso probibits them in the 1743 first six stalls, the Palais Royal in the first four, and the Athence in the first six rows. The theatres whose managers have not yet dared-to enforce similar measures are the Odeon, the Vaudeville, the Varietes, the Nouveautes, the Chatelet, the Folies Dranutiques, the Porte Saint Martin, the Ambign, the Cluny, and four minor theatres. On the other hand, in theatres were they are allowed, the ladies seem to take a great pleasure in wearing more voluminous hats than ever. Fursy, the manager of the popular hall of that name, tells a pathetic 1744 story. At the beginning of the season, he says, he implored the ladies to diminish the size of their hats. The mon sympathetically approved of his request. But what was the result? The ladies paid no attention to it. He adds :- " Every night new have to listen to embarrassing protests on the part of disappointed men. I also have the pleasure of hearing the 21-yard hat complain of the 23-yard hat. As things go am encouraging the progress. I hope that next your I shall see a bat six yards in diameter. Once the extreme limit is reached there may be a reaction, and then

ANIMALS AND SCENT.

A Highly Developed Faculty.

The human nose is not as a rule (says the "Globe") remarkable for the sharpness of its powers, though there are exceptions. Thus the blind, deaf mute, James Mitchel', used to recognise his friends by their smell when they came into the room. Dean Buckland, the famous geologist, again, must have had a keen sense of smell. Out riding with some friends one day they were benighted, and lost their way. Buckland dismounted, took up a handful of soil, smelt it, and said "Uxbridge!" And Berkeley relates that a poor cripple boy was so keen of smell that he could detect truffles with a certainty superior even to that of the best dog. By the exercise of this faculty he was able to earn a livelihood. So, also, some races of men appear to be keener of scent than others. The Puongs, of Cambodia, in French Indo-China, for example, are remarkable for the acuteness of this sense. With their eyes shut or in the dark, they can distinguish different animals, and even different human beings, by their smell. They can even tell one metal from another by its scent. The Ainus, ton, of

In many animals scent seems to be the most highly developed faculty. Thus the wild camel's keenest sense, according to Sven Hedin, is that of gmell. This traveller was told by an experienced camel hunter that it can scent a man 13 miles off! The door, again, has been known to take fright at the scent of a man 24 hours after he had passed the spot. In two apecies of armsdilla, according to Mr W. H. Hudson, the sense of smell is so marvellously acute that it has made sight superfluous, and they are blind, or next door to it. It is not easy to see what use the characteristic small possessed by so many animals can be to the species, except in such extreme cases as the skunk and civet. Here, indeed, it is a veritable "noli me tangere apan, are keen scented, although they only rank second to the Puongs.

addressed to the rest of the animal world. But in the case of the fox, for example, it scenis altogether a disadvantage and danger, to have such a strong smell. A very interesting fact, however, showing how the danger is minimised at certain seasons. is related by an experienced M.F.H. In the spring, he says, when the vixous are with cub they have so little smoll that it is difficult for the hounds to follow even on a good day. A special provision, he considers for the safety of the fox. In a similar way, he considers that partridges and pheasants are protected when sitting on their eggs by a lack of the usual scent.

A pheasant had its nest in a wood near his house for two or three years, and yet was never discovered by the dogs-retrievers, pointers, and fox terriers—which passed and repassed it several times a day. In the case of the pampas deer, described by the "Naturalist in La Plata," the smell may be a warning to its enomies that it is not good to eat. The scent is as strong as that of the skunk, though less disagreeable. Its powerful odor reaches the wanderer on the pumpus when the animal is not even in sight. The Gauchos of the district say that it preserves the deer from snakes, which dislike the smell. And such great faith have they in the officacy of the protection that they tie strips of the deer's skin, which still retain the smell, round the necks of valuable horses, and turn them out to graze where spakes abound.

lan China been wiser in her day when wisdom would have availed to guide her into safe channels of policy the daffgera that now beset the administration and control of her affairs might have been to large extent avoided. The adjustment of what her sages have agreed to call the Great Human Relation seems no longer possible as between Prince and subject, and those who think cannot, as in former days, govern those who toil. Chang Chih Tung's counsel given recently, so it is reported, to the Empress Dowager, who sought his guidance on one of the many perplexining matters of state that seem fraught with significant and far-reaching issues for good or evil, seems to the Western mind eminently sound and sagucious. The secret, said he, of wise and strong government lies in preserving inviolate the bond of good will between rulers and AGE people. As a working principle Western legislators of the highest type could appove the same. ### CHINESE NEW YEAR

The thirty-fourth year of Kwangs begins to-morrow morning. To all ap poarance in China events go on without much change from year to year, and though it is an unpatriotic thing for them to fly a great things are promised, and bold changes are outlined in the newspapers, on the surface little appears to be done. On the other hand it must be romembered that China is a big country, and it is not easy to more such a mass of human beings, andto change so much machinery of such long standing, without time and effort. The year, however, is not without its changes, some of which have been helpful and others baneful to the well-being of the country. like a resume of all that has transpired but to refer to one or two matters that seem to us worthy of comment. In looking near home, it may be remembered that the, limitations as a means of impoverishing Province of Kwangtung has not been without its changes during the year. First, Shum Tsun-heen left his position as Vicoroy carly in the year, and was followed by Chau Fu. Much was expected from the change. The duties, however, proved he too enerous for the saed Viceroy, on the 4th inst. They will stay till the cumbency. Meanwhile the Provincial Treasurer, Yue-yue, filled the meant post as locum tenens. The present Viceroy this act of devotion to the welfare of the H.M.S. Merlin arrived to-day from is Cheung Yan-tsun. So many changes in Chinese. a place of so much importance as Canton cannot conduce to the well-being of the people, and probably if we could see the days at the end of October throughunderneath the surface we should find that difficulties have been met with which have rendered these changes necessary.

The new railway from Sanning to Kungyik has been finished during the year and opened Current rumour indicated that the work is dot of the strongest. It has been built by native funds and is under native supervision. If the reports on the food. No doubt the local loss to the poorer difficulties that occurred on the day opening are an index to what may expected afterwards, there will be a good many hitches in the working in the days that are to come. The success of the Canton-Fatshan line is assured and the increasing traffic tells its own tale. Daily express trains are now ron regularly the rescue of those whose property had from Canton to Fatshan, and they are always full. It is reported that the revenue is well in excess of the exponditure, and that the line is paying well An advance has been made with the Canton-Hankow line. There seems to be no slackening in the determination of the people to have as little as possible to do with foreign money and even with foreign skilled advice in making these milways. There appears to lack the dread that by so doing circle. An official named Tsun Pui the Chinese will be losing a hold upon their own country, which hold will in some way be taken advantage of by the foreigners who

The condition of the people on the The flour and rice markets are fairly Yangtze has given the Government a good deal of anxiety. What is exactly the condition of affairs at present we in the South are hardly able to understand. The determination of the people that foreign money shall not be used to build the milways in the Chehkiang Province is the griovance which is alleged to be the cause of the unrest. But there is no danger capable of coping with any rising that may take place along the wide waterways of China, and plenty of force could at once be noured into the disaffected district, which would crush out any local rebellion.

The irritation of the Chinese against the action of Great Britain in sending torpedo destroyers into the dolta of the Canton River and up the West River is well remembered by all our readers. It has led the Chinese to see that foreign flag, and probably there will be fewer, in the future, who will resort to this subterfuge in order to escape from the interference and exactions of the native officials. Further, apparently, the action of Great Britain has led the Chinese to see that it were wise to pay the indemnity domanded for 'the outrage on board the "Sainam." Moreover the Government itself has taken stronger measures in order to project ship-It is not our purpose here to give anything ping from the ruthless hands of pirates. On the whole great good will ensue from the action of the British Government.

Floods and famine have, as usual, his China hard. In the South the floods in the summer destroyed many villages and much property, and at the same time many lives. Further, the great famine in Anhui was very severe and sufferings of the poor people were terrible. Foreigners at Shanghai and other Treaty Ports subscribed large sums of money, and many missionaries: gave their time to the work of distribution. Some of those who went up into the famine stricken district lost their lives in

In addition to these larger troubles, in the autumn, extraordinary rains during out the Canton Province, did an enormous amount of damage. Much of the rice in the low-lying districts was ripe, butthe swellen rivers inundated these plains, and submerged the wide acres of ripe crops. The consequence was that much of the rice sprouted, and became, therefore, unfit for farmers was very severe, and some will have to suffer for years before they can-make up leeway. The tremendous explosion of gunpowder at the magazine at Canton destroyed a great deal of property and sacrificed many lives. On this occasion the officials came to been destroyed, and money was found by which they were enabled to build for themselves temporary residences. Also, those who were killed and left relatives bohind, did not leave them altogether removed to a spot which is much less explosions in the past, it is not likely any one in the future will again work such havoe amongs t the people.

Of the doings of the officials in the Palace we who live so far away cannot know much. There was one scandal that caused a good deal of commotion in the inner purchased a courtesan as a concubine, and his younger brother carried off by force smother of the same class to be his concubine. Such acts as these are now known to the Chinese world, and they cannot be done with the same impunity as could be done fifty years ago. The Empress Dowager was very wrath and angry recriminations were vented on those who were guilty of these condemnable acts. There have also been was killed by a bumb, thrown by one Tsuf peachments, but as these are usual in Laung-lun. Then there was the wholesale | China, and no one is much the worse for buithery of the official at Chiu-chau with his them, there is no need to pay special atentire family. This was one of the saddest | tention to what is said, unless there be something behind that is outrageously bad.

On the whole it may be said that nothing abnormal has been happening throughout the wide spaces of this enormous counof this uprising by the people, and im- try. Rebels have tried their bands here ard there, but these outbreaks have been strictly local and do not appear to show any wide organization whose object is the overthrow of the present Government. As far as we can see, the seat of the Manchu Government is as firmly established to-day as it has been for many years. They are ever getting into their own hands more and more power, and they are getting also the means of using it. Steamers and railways are more and enabling the Government to mass their men at given spots, and though there are wide areas which are as yet, unopened to Government troops, yet every year makes it easier and easier to get at any local outbroak. Whilst what we have said aupears to be true, it is also evident that the officials are not without four for their own safety, and the rumours of the doings of the rebels on the borders of Annam, and the suspicion that large quantities of ammunition and arms are being surreptiously introduced into China is a constant cause of anxiety and fear to the high officials. Still the condition of China to-day seems to be as satisfactory as it has been for a long time though in view of the increasing demand of the people for more the local press for several days-apparently with the intention of inviting some expression of public opinion, primarily from those dwellers in Queen's Gardens and Conduit Road, and other houses adjacent to the proposed route, and also from the public in general - a protest should be drawn up to be forwarded for the consideration of His Excellency the Governor and signed by those who consider that the advantages accrning to them of such a tramway, are outweighed by the damage it would cause to the Public Gardens and the loss the community in general would suffer thereby.

Situated as the gardens are near to the centre of the town, within easy access of inhabitants, as well as the many visitors to this great centre of ocean travel, these gardens, and perhaps more especially the uniquely beautiful Glenealy portion, with its luxuriant tropical vegetation are not only of local but of world-wide interest and importance. A former scheme in which the tramway was to pass under the Gardens in a tunnel would have wrought far less damage, but I understand was relinquished on account of the addi ional expense it would have involved to the Peak Trainway Company. The question we have to consider is should this beautiful possession, bequeathed to us by the enterprise of the forefathers of the Colony, be sacreficed either to utility or the gains of a private company ! I would suggest that a petition in the following terms be sent -round for signature: "We, the undersigned, considering that the advantages accruing to the public by the proposed new tramway

through the Public Gardens will be outweighed by the loss to the public in the

L WONDERFUL DISCOVERY This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature, so to speak, is rausacked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides during the past century, and among the by no means least important discoveries in medicine comes that of Therapion, particulars of which will be found in another column. This preparation is unquestionably one of the most genuine and reliable Patent Medicines ever introduced, and has, we understand, been used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert, Velpeau, Malsonneuve, the well-known Chassaignae, and indeed by all those who are regarded as authorities in such matters, including the celebrated Laliemand, and Roux, by whom it was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is morthy the attention of those who require such was some time since uniformly adopted, and that it is worthy the attention of those who requires uch a remedy we think there is no doubt. From the time of Aristotle downwards, a potent agent in the removal of these diseases has (like the tangel philosopher's stone) been the object of scarch of some hopeful; generous minds; and far beyond the mere power—if such confever have been discovered—of transmuting the baser metals into gold is surely the discovery of a remedy so potent as to replenish the falling energies of the confirmed mid in the one case; and in the other so effectually, speedily and safely to expel from the system without the aid, or even the knowledge, of a second party, the potent forms as to leave no tailed or trace behind. protent forms as to leave notaite or trace behind. Such is The New French Remedy Therapion, which may certainly rank with, if not take precedence of, many of the discoveries of our day, about which no little estentation and noise have been made, and the extensive and ever-increasing demand that has been created for this medicine wherever introduced appears to prove that it is destined to cast into oblivious all those questionable remedies that into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. Therapion may be obtained in Hugiand, direct from the proprietor, and of the principal Chemists and Merchants throughout the Colonies, India, China, Japan, &c., not even excluding such remote districts an Central Africa, the Figi Islands, St. Helens, &c.—Dismond Fields Advertion KIMBERLING.

A UNIQUE STEAMER. The Tocantins, a twin-screw steamer baunched at Port Glasgow, and intended for service on the River Amazon, boasts features which must be unique in a vessel of this description. For instance, there is a large refrigerating chamber on the main deck, which will enable iced water or iced beer to be numped up to the bar on the promenade deck. This is a departure in the matter of iced drinks which ought to be greatly appreciated in Brazil. In the smoke-room on the upper deck is placed a piano, which, if no pinnist is present, will play automatically. On the top of the chart house is a sky-sign which, by the aid of electricity, shows the vessel's name at night in colours. Electrical sound apparatus is also fitted in the holds, so that in the event of water getting into any one of them the fact will be notified in the captain's room. The Tocantins which is 187 ft. long and 33" ft. in beam, has accommodation for forty-four first class
